No. 51.—Notes on the Rainfall and General Weather Condition in Western Australia during July, August and September, 1956.

July.

Pressure and Wind.—The month opened with a southern depression passing Cape Leeuwin and causing westerly winds over the southern half of the State. It moved away in a south-easterly direction while the following anticyclone moved inland about the latitude of Carnarvon.

This sequence was repeated again in a weeks time, but on the 8th the southern depression took an unusual course and moved inland over the lower south-west, before passing out to sea again into the Bight.

The following anticyclonic system caused southerly and later south-easterly winds in the southern half of the State until the 16th, when the southern low pressure system again caused a renewal of westerlies over about half the State. During the rest of the month a succession of southern depressions maintained an unbroken flow of westerlies in southern districts. There were frequent gales on the south coast during the month, but they did not extend as far north as usual, and caused rather less damage than usual. In the tropics winds were mainly easterlies, due to the anticyclonic system lying across the northern sub-tropics. On the 13th a low pressure trough developed west of Broome, and extended southward across the Kimberleys and central Australia during the next few days. On a few other occasions westerly winds from the northern fringe of southern depressions extended into the tropics, but these conditions did not persist for long.

Rainfall.—Except during the period between the 10th and 16th there were frequent showers in most places in the South-West Division, and totals for the month were above normal in most places. In the far south where westerlies prevailed longest a number of places recorded rain on 25 days, and in the wheat belt there were general rains on seven days, as well as scattered showers on others.

On several occasions the rains extended to the Gascoyne division, but at most centres in this area totals were below normal. In the South-Eastern and Eucla Divisions there were frequent showers, though they were mainly light. Totals for the month nevertheless exceeded the normal in most places.

In the tropics there were good rains on the 14th and 15th. The best falls were in the West and East Kimberleys where some totals of over four inches were received. In the De Grey and Fortescue, although totals were above the normal for July they were much lighter than in the Kimberleys and in all but a few centres were below one inch. In the North-East division similar rains were received.

Temperature.—At Wyndham temperatures were above normal almost every day of the month, but in the rest of the State there were on the whole more days below normal than above.

Temperatures below freezing point were recorded somewhere in the State on about 50 per cent. of the days, and there were numerous frosts at times in the southern divisions. The lowest reading reported was 24 degrees at Bridgetown on the 15th and the highest 94 degrees at Wyndham on the 20th. This centre was the hottest in Western Australia on 19 days.

Metropolitan.—In Perth there were 21 wet days during which a total of 1004 points of rain were received. This is 326 points above the normal for the month and brings the years total to 3025 points, which is 784 above the normal for the first seven months.

A heavy fall of rain on the 18th when almost one inch was recorded at the Weather Bureau in one hour, caused local flooding. Soon after daylight on the 23rd, a tornadic squall cut through Midland Junction, Bellevue and Greenmount, unroofing half a dozen houses, blowing down walls, etc., More than 40 houses were damaged, and railways were blocked for some hours by fallen poles.

Temperatures in Perth were about normal, though there were a few more days below normal than above. The highest temperature recorded was 65.0 degrees on the 26th, and the lowest 40.8 degrees on the 9th.

There were westerly gales on seven days, the highest wind speed being 58 m.p.h. from the W.N.W. on the 28th. Winds also reached 57 m.p.h. on two other days during the month.

August.

Pressure and Wind.—At the beginning of the month a depression off the south coast was moving away eastward, and an anticyclone extending inland across the west coast from the Indian Ocean. During the next few weeks there was not much variation from this pressure distribution, though several anticyclonic cells and southern depressions moved away to the east.

It was noticeable however, that the anticyclonic belt was further south than during the previous month, so that easterly winds prevailed over most of the State. There were westerlies in southern districts in the early part of the month, but during the second half of it the anticyclonic system had moved so far south that winds were easterly almost throughout the State. On the 8th westerly gales caused considerable damage at Esperance, washing away 30 to 40 feet of the jetty.

About the middle of the month a low pressure trough developed off the west coast and moved across the southern divisions into the Bight during the next few days.

A most unusual occurrence for this time of the year was the development of a tropical cyclone near Cocos on the 27th. It passed over the island during the day with winds of 80 m.p.h. causing local damage and putting the radio station off the air for some time. Eleven inches of rain were registered in twenty-four hours, and about seven of them fell in an hour and a half.

This cyclone later moved eastward towards Carnarvon decreasing in intensity before moving inland over the Gascoyne division at the end of the month.

Rainfall.—In south coastal districts where westerlies persisted longest there were frequent showers, and at Albany there were 26 wet days during the month. However, the falls were light and even at Albany only about half the normal total was received. Further north rains were lighter still and less frequent, and in the wheatbelt amounted to only about one-fifth of the normal fall.

The month was the driest August on record in the agricultural areas, and considerably worse than in 1914 and 1940, the two drought years.

In the Gascoyne, North-East and Eucla divisions the average fall was above the normal, due mainly to the decaying tropical cyclone which moved inland over these divisions towards the end of the month.

In the rest of the State rainfall was negligible, and no rain at all was recorded in most of the tropics.

Temperatures.—In the tropics temperatures were about normal or a little above. South of the tropics day temperatures were below normal and there were widespread and severe frosts extending at times to the tropics.

The highest temperature recorded was 99 degrees at Kalumburu on the 13th and the lowest 26 degrees at Mundiwindi on the 11th and Bridgetown on the 24th. At Mundiwindi this temperature was equal to the lowest on record for August, while at Bridgetown it was the lowest ever recorded for the month. At several centres there were more days with frost than without it.

Metropolitan.—In Perth there were 10 wet days on which a total of 159 points were recorded. This is the lowest August total for over fifty years, and the second lowest on record.

Temperatures were below normal on all but six days, the highest being 69.2 degrees (5.2 degrees above normal) on the 30th, and the lowest 36.1 degrees (12.2 degrees below normal) on the 9th. This was the second lowest August temperature on record for Perth. The mean temperature for the month and the mean minimum, 53.4 degrees and 44.4 degrees respectively, were the lowest on record.

Winds were lighter than usual for August, the highest being 40 m.p.h. from the south on the 8th. Due partly to the light winds in the southern part of the State, there were many early morning fogs, and on the 14th, Perth Airport was closed from 3 a.m. till 8.15 a.m. Visibility in Fremantle Harbour was reduced to a few yards.

September.

Pressure and Wind.—The month opened with a large anticyclone covering the State and moving away to the east. Winds were mainly easterlies but there were westerlies near the south coast.

By the 4th a depression off Cape Leeuwin was causing north-westerly winds over the south-western half of the State. In the next few days the north-westerlies were replaced by south-westerlies behind a cold front moving in from the west, and by the 7th a new anticyclone was centred off Cape Leeuwin covering most of the State.

Anticyclonic conditions with easterly winds predominated during the rest of the month, but on several occasions southern depressions and associated low pressure troughs caused westerlies in southern districts.

Towards the end of the month pressure in the tropics was lower, and a tendency for the typical summer trough to develop in that area became noticeable.

Rainfall.—On the first day of the month light to moderate rains were recorded in the Fortescue and De Grey divisions, as well as scattered light falls in other places south of the tropics. These were mainly received during the previous twenty-four hours as the result of the dying cyclone which passed across the State at the end of the previous month.

There were also a few scattered falls in the Kimberleys during the first few days, but no rain was recorded in the tropics during the rest of the month.

In the South-Western division there were more or less general rains on the 17th and again on the 24th, but falls were light, and on the 17th they missed many places in the north coastal districts. There were showers for a few days before and after these dates in some places, but at the end of the month totals were below normal at almost all stations in the South-Western division.

In the South-Eastern division showers were less frequent than in the South-West, and totals for the month were below normal in all but one or two centres. At one of these centres, although rainfall was above the normal for the month, it totalled only 9 points.

Temperature.—In general temperatures were below normal in the first half of the month and above normal in the second. The highest in the State was 102 degrees at Marble Bar and Roebourne on the 24th.

In the first half of the month Wyndham was the most consistently hot place, but in the second half Marble Bar was hotter. The mean maximum temperatures for the month were 92 degrees at Wyndham and 89 degrees at Marble Bar.

There were frosts during the first half of the month at places in the southern half of the State, the most widespread occurring on the 1st and the 6th.

Temperatures of freezing point or lower were recorded on nine days during the first eleven of the month, but in the remainder of the period they fell to freezing point only once. The lowest in the State was 27 degrees at Wandering on the 6th and 7th.

Metropolitan.—In Perth there were nine wet days during which 208 points were recorded. This is 121 points below the normal for the month, and brings the total for the first nine months of the year to 3392 points, about 2.5 inches above the normal for the corresponding period.

Temperatures were above normal on all but ten days, the highest being 82.0 degrees (17.3 degrees above normal) on the 22nd. The lowest was 36.7 degrees (13.4 degrees below normal) on the 6th. This was the lowest September temperature ever recorded in Perth. On the 1st of the month the minimum fell to 37.7 degrees which was within 0.1 degrees of the previous record.

Winds were not particularly strong, and exceeded 40 m.p.h. on only three days, the highest being 46 m.p.h. from the W.S.W. on the 4th and again on the 24th.

(a) For the purpose of the Census, a "dwelling" is any habitation occupied by a household group living together as a domestic unit, whether comprising the whole or part of a building. The term has, therefore, a very wide reference and includes, in addition to houses and flats, a great variety of "dwellings" ranging from a single-roomed shack to a multi-roomed hotel or institution.

The term "unoccupied dwellings" is not synonymous with vacant houses and flats available for occupancy, but refers mainly to dwellings (including those used for week-end and holiday purposes) whose usual occupants were temporarily absent on the night of the Census. Newly-completed dwellings awaiting occupancy are also included.

(b) Persons (both passengers and crew) not enumerated elsewhere who at midnight between the 30th June and the 1st July, 1954 were on board ships or were travelling on long distance trains or aircraft.

No. 58.—RETAIL SALES OF GOODS.

Value of Retail Sales classified according to Commodity Groups.

Figures supplied by Commonwealth Statistician.

The figures in the table below relate to goods (as distinct from services, accommodation, entertainments, meals, etc.) sold to the public by establishments selling retail goods from fixed premises (shops, rooms, kiosks, yards). The table contains particulars of retail sales of goods for the years 1948-49 to 1954-55 on a comparable basis throughout. The figures for the years 1948-49 and 1952-53 were obtained from Censuses taken in respect of those years, whereas particulars for the other periods shown are estimates based on sample surveys
